New College All-Stars “History Hunt” Game Brings the Passion of Football to the National Naval Aviation Museum

Giving Players the Chance to Win 2009 Under Armour Senior Bowl Tickets

Pensacola, Fla.–Sept. 15, 2008– The National Naval Aviation Museum is getting into the football spirit with the introduction of a new “College All-Stars History Hunt” game. As the fall season swings into full gear, fans all across the nation are clearing schedules and securing their spot in front of the television for 13 jam-packed weeks of exhilarating victories and crushing defeats. It’s a time when old college rivalries heat up, and we cheer on the stars of our favorite sports teams.

Naval Aviation has its own brand of All-Stars, men and women who earned their accolades not on the athletic field, but in service to our country, on the front lines of battle or in the depths of space. Visitors to the National Naval Aviation Museum are able to pick up a free game card to find some of these College All-Stars who attended the same Division I schools that command our loyalties each season.

After completing the game by stamping all eight clues at appropriate stamp stations, stop by the Flight Deck Store to register for a chance to win tickets to the 2009 Under Armour Senior Bowl and other great prizes*.

The College All-Stars History Hunt game is free and open to the public.

Previous games include the Famous Flyers History Hunt, where players learned tales of heroic and daring pilots, and the LOST History Hunt, an adventure through hidden history to discover clues for basic survival skills to get off of the LOST desert island.

Admission to the Museum is free. For a complete list of upcoming events at the Museum, visit www.NavalAviationMuseum.org or call the Naval Aviation Museum Foundation at (850) 453-2389 or (800) 327-5002.
